E-COURSE
SESSION 02

2021

Hello again,

Today's session is a continuation of Session 1, I will go through what happens behind the screens and go through the "Trainers" scenario, they are my favoured analogies.

A quick recap from session 01, remember the Dragons Den concept? You need to be a bargain hunter! Someone how likes to buy on SALE. By always wanting a cheaper price, which is similar to the Dragons Den, by always asking for a higher % of a company that seems fair.

There will be lots of companies that you miss out on that will not fit your price. Some of these companies will keep going up and do great things. Shift your mindset from; I need the company to the company needs me. Play hard to get! What matters most is the investments you do take not the ones you miss out on! Play hard to get! 😊

Think about your ego, be resilient, if the "amazing" company you are looking into does not hit the price you want then do not get involved.

Especially, when people are buying & or hype-up a particular stock(s). Don't let FOMO (The fear of missing out) get you. It could be a Pump-and-dump scheme.

Then I discussed Compound Interest, where if you can make 20% on £5000 every 4 years you will double your money. The exact number is 18%. If you make 18% investment return every year, in 4 years you will double your money. After 25 years, which should represent a long-term investment timeframe, the same way as when you buy a house and pay off your mortgage between 25 or 30 years, that should reflex your ability to relies upon the compounding where you can turn £5k into £500,000 (half a million). The number gets significant when you start putting in monthly contributions.

The logic behind this is that a bank's annual interest pays you zero, your cash ISA paying you 1% depending on the provider. Investing in Bonds pays 3/4%, Premium Bonds 2/3% and Index funds, other investment methods can get you 5/10%. Then we discussed the Stock

Exchanges. The UK one is called the FTSE 100 Index, FTSE 100, FTSE, or, informally, the "Footsie", is a share index of the 100 companies listed on the London Stock Exchange with the highest market capitalization.

SESSION 02

"Change your mindset from, I need the company to... the company needs me!!"

WHAT IS AN INDEX FUND:

An index fund is a portfolio of stocks or bonds designed to mimic the composition and performance of a financial market index. This is Passive investment – Having the FTSE100 (UK) index fund, the return will be approx. 7% per year. For the S&P500 (US) index fund, the return will be approx. 10%.

Whilst Micro investing and it is similar to an Index investing – however, you choose individual stocks to invest in. Your return should be higher. With the SPA method, we aim for 20%.

WHAT IS AN IPO:

An initial public offering (IPO) refers to the process of offering shares of a private corporation to the public in a new stock issuance. Public share issuance allows a company to raise capital from public investors. The transition from a private to a public company can be an important time for private investors to fully realize gains from their investment as it typically includes share premiums for current private investors. Meanwhile, it also allows public investors to participate in the offering. Prior to an IPO, a company is considered private.

WHAT IS A ETF:

An exchange-traded fund (ETF) is a collection of stocks—that often tracks an underlying index, although they can invest in any number of industry sectors or use various strategies. ETFs are in many ways similar to mutual funds; however, they are listed on exchanges and ETF shares trade throughout the day just like an ordinary stock. If a stock is a fruit an ETF is a smoothie!

WHAT IS A REIT:

A real estate investment trust (REIT) is a company that owns, operates, or finances income-generating real estate. Modelled after mutual funds, REITs pool the capital of numerous investors. This makes it possible for individual investors to earn dividends from real estate investments—without having to buy, manage, or finance any properties themselves. REIT like ETF's can be traded throughout the day like stocks. Both REIT's & ETF's are less volatile, therefore it's more for long-term investment goals.

"If a Stock is a fruit, an ETF is a smoothie!!"

WHAT HAPPENS BEHIND THE SCREEN:

Firstly, when you buy a stock, you need a license with the Exchange to purchase it, which cost money. Most people are not willing to pay for the charges, hence only a handful of companies are willing to pay for the license and in return, they charge a small percentage as handing fee. These type of companies are called Stock Brokers and operating as the middleman. Back in the days, you can only buy stocks over the phone whereas nowadays there are online brokers. A few examples of online platforms are Hargreaves Lansdown's (HL), IG, Trading 212 and Etoro.

HOW THE STOCK EXCHANGE WORKS:

All stocks that you buy come from the Exchange, the companies are listed on the Exchange. It's like you listing your online shop on Amazon, Shopify or other e-commerce sites. Imagine Amazon pays you commission – when you sell lots of items and because a valued seller. The same way you have ratings on an e-commerce website, stocks have ratings as well. It's called Credit Ratings - telling you the quality of the company.

HOW RATING WORKS:

Analysts that work on both the buy-side and sell-side of the industry research stocks and write opinions on those stocks, which will often include a rating such as buy, hold or sell. Meanwhile, bonds are rated by the three major bond rating agencies.

TYPE OF RATING:

Analyst Ratings: Analysts on the buy-side will write opinions for their teams for the purposes of informing portfolio management decisions. For a stock, an analyst may assign a buy, hold, or sell rating and an explanation of why they recommend this action for the stock. When it comes to major institutions, they all use different terminology and classifications. All of these terms are variations of the buy, hold, and sell ratings.

Rating Agency Ratings: For a bond, a rating agency will assess the bond's relative safety based upon the issuing entity's fundamental financial picture, which scrutinizes the issuer's ability to repay the principal and make interest payments.

The ratings for Moody's and S&P from highest to lowest in the investment grade category are Aaa/AAA, Aa1/AA+, A.

HOW THE STOCK EXCHANGE WORKS: continue

Every stock has a marketplace at the Exchange. There are buyers and sellers on the market - it's like advertising.

They don't buy from each other but advertising what price or quantity they are willing to buy from someone or at what price or quantity they are willing to sell! There is a community of buyers and sellers at the Exchange level. Someone will say, I got 50.000 shares of Apple to buy at X price. Another will say, I have a 1000 shares of Apple to sell at X price. Another will have another quantity for Apple shares at another price, buy or sell.

The Buyers and Sellers are divided into two separate queues - every stock has a Buy and a Sell lane, also known as the Order book . Basically, it shows you who is waiting to buy, at what price and who is waiting to sell and at what price. People in the queues are investment bankers, brokers, financial institutions and often they will have different prices and quantities of stocks.

The Exchange market is run by machines, learning & AI computers/models - doing mathematical calculations etc... but in the past, people were behind the scenes.

Some queues are desirable than others, this can translate to a price moving fast or slow – explaining why some stocks move fast (volatile) or slow and steady, this is usual the mega-companies like Apple, Amazon, Microsoft.

WHAT IS AN ORDER BOOK?

The term order book refers to an electronic list of buy and sell orders for a specific security or financial instrument organized by price level. An order book lists the number of shares being bid on or offered at each price point, or market depth. It also identifies the market participants behind the buy and sell orders, though some choose to remain anonymous. These lists help traders and also improve market transparency because they provide valuable trading information.

Order books are used by almost every exchange for various assets like stocks, bonds, currencies, and even crypto currencies.

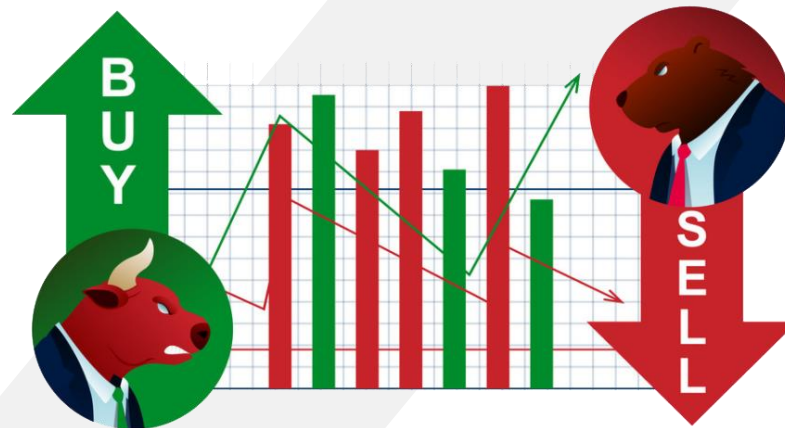

These lists help improve market transparency as they provide information on price, availability, depth of trade, and who initiates transactions.

There are three parts to an order book: buy orders, sell orders, and order history.

WHAT IS BID & ASK?

The term bid and ask (also known as bid and offer) refers to a two-way price quotation that indicates the best potential price at which a security can be sold and bought at a given point in time. The bid price represents the maximum price that a buyer is willing to pay for a share of stock or other security. The ask price represents the minimum price that a seller is willing to take for that same security. A trade or transaction occurs after the buyer and seller agree on a price for the security which is no higher than the bid and no lower than the ask.

The difference between bid and ask prices, or the spread, is a key indicator of the liquidity of the asset. In general, the smaller the spread, the better the liquidity.

A PAIR OF TRAINERS SCENARIO:

Imagine, I gave you £100 and ask you to go buy low budget trainers on the market and sell them online. You go to your local market and see different low budget trainers for sale. Not your high prices trainers like Nike or Adidas 😊. You ask the vendor how much the trainers are: “he/she says £12% per pair of trainer” – as you are a good haggler you get the price down to £10 per trainer and decide to buy 1no pair 😊. Before you sell the one pair, you research online (Gumtree, eBay) what your competitors are doing. Before putting the shoes on sale online you can think “If I’m testing the market” I might want to get a few more! The following week, you decide to go back to the market, to the same vendor and enquire the price for the same trainers. However, this week they are £1 per pair.

How do you feel now?

Most people will get upset, the vendor sold you the trainer for £10 after haggling for 5/10mins last week AND now the same trainers are only £1. Even though you are displeased about the new development, you still have your eye on the price – £90 is remaining in your wallet and you like at the new of £1 price.

What percentage drop is £10 to £1?

How to calculate percentage:

Original price (£10) for a pair of trainer – the new price (£1)= £9

Then take  $£9 \div £10 = 0.9 \times 100 (100\%) = 90\%$

Imagine you bought a stock and it went down by 90%. You probably think you lost money! The world is against you!

NO, not with the Stockpickers method - we LOVE stocks at discount prices!

Investment start from the mind. When you start seeing the stocks you own as you being part of the business, as you area shareholder. Ones you get your mentality changes you will get excited when you see stocks going down in price.

SESSION 02

Say you are there already: You decide to spend the £90 at £1 per pair of trainers. So you get 91 pair of trainers. At this point, you have spent your full budget of £100.

Example: if you spend £100 on 5 handbags or trainers, how much will one handbag/trainer cost?

Total amount spend divided by the number of items.

$\text{£100 (total amount spend)} \div 5 \text{ (total quantity of items)} = \text{£20 per handbag or trainer}$

Going back to the trainers you have bought: You bought 1 pair of trainers for £10 and spent £90 on the remaining trainers (90). The total amount of trainers is 91 pair of trainers. As a business owner, you need to know your cost per item so that you can establish your sell price per item.

What is the calculation to get an average price of one per pair of trainers?

The calculation goes as followed:

Total amount spend  $\div$  total number of items purchased = Total price per item

$\text{£100 (total amount spend)} \div 91 \text{ (total number of items purchased)} = \text{£1.10 per pair of trainers (New price)}$

As a business owner, you have to know your base price and this allows you to set your sell price. Imagine, you set your sale price at £2.20 for a pair of trainers – you doubled your money, right? That is a 100% return 😊 Better than a saving account or Cash ISA!

*What we have discussed above is extremely important! We are using the same scenario for stocks
→ the SPA method.*

The reason this works is that even when you spent a bit of your budget at a "bad" price (high price), the bulk of your budget will be spend at a cheaper price. 😊

It is easier to quadruple your profit when you buy a stock at a dip level, when you buy the stock cheaper. The closer the stock gets to zero the closer it gets to bankruptcy, however investors can think: “The stock is bad but it’s not going bankrupt”. This is a good example of First-level thinking vs Second-level thinking.

Author Howard Marks describes First-level thinking vs Second-level thinking in his book “The Most Important Thing: Uncommon Sense for the Thoughtful Investor”. I highly recommend this book.

First-level thinking: Is simplistic and superficial, and just about everyone can do it.

- Ohhh... this is a good stock, buy it!
- Or this is a bad stock sell it!
- Or don’t buy it!

Second-level thinking: is deep, complex, and convoluted.

- This stock is a good stock but the high price makes it look like it’s amazing!
- It’s a good stock but it’s overpriced so don’t buy till it comes to your price entry level.

- Another example is if a stock is a bad stock in a bad industry and the price makes it look like it’s going bankrupt. However it’s not terrible, the company is just going through a tough period – therefore, actually, buy the stock. You have to think outside the box.

If we go back to the trainers scenario and instead you spend the full £100 on trainers at the haggled price of £10, now you don’t have any money to buy more at the new sale price of £1. Your return will not be great as the first scenario, will it? It will take longer to make profit and the odds are against you.

Scenario one is an example of the averaging strategy. That is how the SPA method works – we are working with an averaging plan when buying stocks.

BENEFIT OF AN SPA AVERAGING STRATEGY:

- You don't get crazy fluctuations in your wealth, in your account balance. The price it's cheaper
- You get more stocks, more inventory
- You're ability to make an above-average return, 50% - 100% these kind of returns are higher.
- You are managing your risk. Your number one focus is not how much money I'm going to make, It's how can I protect myself whilst giving myself that change to make money. Its called Risk management.

Example of a SPA averaging template -
In Session 04 it will explained in more detail.

There is something about stocks – Most time I will buy a stock, it goes down before it goes up. Why?

"You can't time the market but & you can't control the price!"

A well-known assumption: more times than not, things get worse before they get better! Therefore it's always better to buy with an averaging strategy and SPA only works with an averaging strategy.

Opportunity to buy more, opportunity to buy better, opportunity to make above-average returns. Red equal's opportunity in the stock market.

"RED equal's opportunity!!"

02

MARKET CAP:

Market capitalization refers to the total dollar market value of a company's outstanding shares of stock. Commonly referred to as "market cap," it is calculated by multiplying the total number of a company's outstanding shares by the current market price of one share.

Simply explained: Market Cap refers to how much a company is worth as determined by the stock market. It is defined as the total market value of all outstanding shares.

A quick way to establish the stock market cap is to check which Index is registered on. Is it in a major index or minor index? Major is the index of a country - S&P 500 (US) or FTSE Index (UK)? Or maybe it's in the Dax Index in Germany.
